

Well done on the website. We are the South African distributors of Elastilon now for four years and have been in the wooden flooring business now for 21 years. This is the safest and best installation method. I see you you promote Elastilon strong, this is great. We make it easy here, we push Elastilon Strong for solids and Elastilon basic for Engineered and this works well. We even have a horse here in South Africa that we bought in Holland and the horses name is Elastilon and is doing well through the grades in Dressage. We have Elastilon as a recognized installation system with our Flooring Association (www.sawlfa.com) of which I am the vice chairman and busy having it written into the bureau of standards as an installation system for wooden flooring. This is the best invention of all time for installing of wooden flooring. We have had two copy cats here which have now stopped on Lawyers letter from Fred in Holland. If Fred is the most passionate person on Elastilon then I would like to think I am then second. Well good luck with Elastilon and you should try get in into NWFA as a recognized method of installation. We use Elastilon Removable for training and SAWLFA accreditation purposes.
